

The Guardians: Reshaping History Project and Exhibition

Poem by Tayler Mugar, 2021

Tayler Mugar (00:01):

Before I lay me down to sleep I gotta speak me peace. These demons in my head be fuckin' up my peace. Trying to keep God by my side, but the devil keep bumping into me.

Tayler Mugar (00:10):

It be fuckin' me up when I'm just trying to do right. The more I try to do right, the more shit be fuckin' me up at night. Fuck, I gotta do to get some peace. The way Niggas move in my city, they love to see you deceased.

Tayler Mugar (00:22):

They packin, but they lackin, locked up in them chains. Every time I drive down the block, I just wanna go and sing. God knows I try my best to make a change, but if Niggas can't see nothing for themselves I can't take the blame. If Niggas fighting to stay the same, I gotta let them do their thing. Had to walk always just to stay sane.
